One nice thing about the wrestling game is that all bouts are "cham-pionship" contests.

It's a pretty good bet that Connie Mack's Athletics won't win the American league championship this year

The presence of Louis Litschi, the former Bridgeport infielder in the line-up of the Dallas club this season, is one reason advanced for that club b appearance in the game in the per-son of Bill Doak of the Cardinals. Manager Hendricks has made up his mind to work him as often as possi-ble, and he can stand a lot of it.

Col. Ebbets and the Brooklyn fans will keep their eye on Jake Daubert who is started off in first class shape with the Robins. He'll have to keep it up to earn his $9000 salary this year or give way to another first base

Then some bright little suggester says: "Let's make a Welsh Rabbit."

Atta boy!

You drag out the silver-plated stew-pan and elect some gifted guy as head mixer, and he starts putting the things together. Never mind what he puts in it-he's the only man that knows-but when he gets everything blended right, hats off to the Welsh Rabbit king It's the word blend that tells the story.

The blend idea has made Mecca the favorite cigarette with over a million smokers. There are twelve mighty choice tobaccos used in Mecca cigarettes-five Turkish and seven American-but you don't taste the flavor of any one of them separately when you take a deep drag. The only flavor you get is the good old Mecca flavor.

No one tobacco has everything you want in a cigarette.

Each of the twelve tobaccos in Mecca cigarettes is picked for a special purpose. One for fragrance, another for smoothness, still another for body-to let you know you're really smoking -and so on down the line.

Here's how the still-blending process works. The different tobaccos are not just mixed, but are placed together in the blending-still. Then moist heat is passed through until all the different flavors are drawn into one-the flavor that has made Mecca cigarettes known from one end of the country to the other.
